St. Paul, June 21.—(UP)—Ernest Lundeen, Minneapolis, today was the apparent victor in the farmer-labor gubernatorial race against Dr. L. A. Fritsche, New Ulm.

The 3,407 reported precincts out of the state's 3,694 gave Lundeen 40,023 votes comparde to 38,647 for Fritsche.

Although the final results of Monday's primary election race may not be certain until the report of the canvass board is made, it is believed Lunden's majority will be increased in the precincts still untabulated.

Out of 3,116 precincts, Nelson won 102,306 votes, Burnquist 72,478 and Rockne 67,235.

Nelson is expected to pile up a lead of about 50,000 when all the votes are tabulated.

The bear retreated a few steps and surveyed the woman.

Rescue Forces Seek to Save Nobile and Amundsen

TENSE SILENCE FOLLOWS OUTBREAK OF GANG FEUD

Chicago, June 21.—(U.P.)—The tense and tight-lipped silence which follows each new outbreak in Chicago's gangland defied the efforts of police today to solve the latest series of assassinations.

Although officials attributed the murders of John "Bowlegs" Oliveri, Joseph Salamone and James Reggi to the notorious Aiello gang, it virtually was impossible to gather any evidence against suspects.

A hush lay over Little Italy's "death corner" at Cambridge and Oak streets, where Salamone and Oliveri, like more than 50 other men in recent years, were killed.

Although many arrests have been made, the police admit frankly they do not know where to begin prosecuting.

HEAVY RAINFALL CAUSES MISSOURI STREAMS TO RISE

RAIN IN SOME SECTIONS ASSUMES CLOUDBURST PROPORTIONS

MISSISSIPPI RIVER REPORTED RISING AT RATE OF FOOT PER HOUR

St. Louis, Mo., June 21.—(UP)—Heavy rainfall Tuesday night, which in some parts of eastern Missouri assumed cloudburst proportion, has sent several streams over their banks and has caused many thousands of dollars damage to crops.

The Mississippi river was reported to be rising at the rate of one foot pr hour near Mokane, Mo. It was still within its banks but residents of the vicinity were preparing to move out should the rise continue.

One-third of the town is flooded from smaller streams in the district but the smaller streams were reported subsiding today.

Meanwhile streams in Callway county had surged from their bank to wash out all communication except telephones and had caused merchants to remove merchandise from their stores.

Two men were injured near Fulton, Mo., when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a flooded ravine where water had removed 40 feet of concrete from highway No. 54. The rain in Fulton was reported to be the heaviest experienced there since 1872.

Kansas City, Mo., June 21.—The capricious variety of weather which has been served up to the southwest the past week today apparently had been superceded by clearing skies and extremely high temperatures. Weather forecasters for the district reported the period of hailstorms and severe winds probably was over for a time and that uniform summer heat would now set in.

Millions of dollars of property damage were caused by storms in the southwest since Saturday. Tornadoes which visited Oklahoma communities scattered destruction in all directions and ran the death toll to eleven. High winds, hail and floods swept across several counties in Kansas and Missouri, adding to the destruction and rendering several thousand persons homeless.

A cloudburst flooded the White river and Lake Taneycomo near Hollister, Mo., and swept several houses from their foundations. Garden City, Kas., reported the most disastrous hailstorm since 1917 followed by three inches of rain.

The Red Cross reported more than 2,000 persons homeless in four Oklahoma counties around Altus where a tornado destroyed property and crops valued at nearly two millions of dollars.

Relief agencies and volunteers are doing everything possible to care for families made homeless by tornadoes and floods.

It was estimated that in four Oklahoma counties alone more than 400 houses had been rendered useless by the storms.

Residents of Coffeville, Kas., were preparing for a flood as the result of the sudden rise of the Verdigris river. It was flowing more than 20 feet above the water works dam and rose at the rate of an inch an hour. The crest of the flood was expected today.

COOLIDGE IS ADROIT WITH HOOK AND LINE

SUMMER WHITE HOUSE ANNOUNCES HIS CATCH AS 6 TROUT

FISHING EXPEDITION LASTED FROM EARLY MORNING TO LATE AFTERNOON

Superior, Wis., June 21.—(UP)—All doubt of President Coolidge's adroitness with hook and line has been dissipated.

The summer White House announced officially last night that the president's creel encased six Brule river trout when he returned from a fishing expedition that lasted from early morning until late in the afternoon.

Summer White House officials considered the feat of sufficient importance to summon to the executive offices here all the correspondents who could be reached either by telephone or messenger. An official bulletin was issued on the catch.

The largest of the six fish landed by President Coolidge, the official bulletin said, was a Lochlaven weighing 1 3-4 pounds. The next largest was a Rainbow that weighed 1 1-4 pounds.

Attendants at the executive offices who received the announcement by private long distance telephone from Cedar Island Lodge, neglected to ascertain what bait was used.

That the president will have other forms of diversion was indicated by the fact that he is considering invitations to make a tour early in July of the Minnesota iron mine district, as well as a two-day lake cruise on Superior.

CHANG TSO LIN, MANCHURIAN WAR LORD, DIES

FORMER DICTATOR OF NORTH CHINA GATHERED TO HIS FATHERS

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF HIS DEMISE IS MADE

Mukden, China, June 21. — (UP) —The death of Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord and former dictator of the north China government, was announced officially today.

The anonuncement said the Manchurian ruler had died this morning.

Chang Tso Lin was injured May 28 at the outskirts of Mukden. Within a few hours his death had been rumored in many parts of the world, particularly in Tokio.

Early this week a report reached Tokio that the Manchurian government officially would announce Chang Tso Lin's death on June 21.

Chang Tso Lin, a Chinese bandit, who rose to great political power through his control of Manchuria, was one of the outstanding men in recent Chinese history.

He took over, after a bitter assault on the central powers, the government of Peking in 1924 and since had ruled there.

When the nationalists, under Feng Yu-Hsiang, started their drive towards Peking, Chang Tso-Lin made ready to protect the northern capital. He engaged the southerners in many vigorous battles.

Finally late in May, when the nationalists approached perilously close to the capital, Chang Tso Lin renounced his control of the Peking government, said he hoped for a reuniting of China, and then fled the city.

As his special train pulled into Mukden, it was bombed and Chang received his fatal injuries.

Recent dispatches from Tokio said that Chang Tso Lin's eldest son, Chang Hsieuh-Liang, was expected to take over control of the northern government and possibly become generalissimo of the Mukden armies.

NEW YORK HAILS MEXICO'S 'LINDY'

It was a proud moment for Capt. Emilio Carranza, the "Mexican Lindbergh," when he swooped down out of the clouds at Mitchel Field and received the spontaneous homage which New York reserves for heroic birdmen. His plane, a sister ship of Lindy's "Spirit of St. Louis," came down in a perfect "three point" landing, and an instant later the pilot was in his father's embrace. DRIVE OF FORESTRY SERVICE AGAINST LAW VIOLATORS

St. Paul, June 21.—(U.P.)—The drive of the forestry service against violators of the forest fire laws has resulted in 84 convictions this year, according to an announcement today by Grover M. Conzet, state forester.

Most of the convictions were for burning brush without permit, Conzet explained, although two convictions were returned against persons who failed to fight fires when called upon to do so.

St. Paul, June 21. — (U.P.)—The State bank of Alpha, Jackson county was closed today because of depleted reserves, according to A. J. Veigel, state banking commissioner. The bank had capital of $15,000 and deposits of $72,000.

LINDBERGH MAY WING HIS WAY EASTWARD TODAY

CONFERRED WITH RAIL, AIR AND NAVIGATION LEADERS AT ST. PAUL

HE AND LOUIS W. HILL STROLL ABOUT THE CITY UNOBSERVED

St. Paul, June 21.—(UP) — Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was expected to wing his way eastward today following a series of conferences with rail, air and navigation leaders here on advisability of passenger and express airlines to the Pacific coast.

Lindbergh apparently enjoyed his stay since Tuesday night as the guest of Louis W. Hill, railroad magnate, because he seemed to drop some of the reserve he has been forced to assume since his memorable flight over the Atlantic.

He and Hill strolled about the city unrecognized last night after the conferences with officials of the Great Northern railroad and Japanese shipping leaders.

The colonel made the lasting friendship of several boys who invited him into the Hill home for a brief chat with the "Lone Eagle." Lindbergh scrawled his name on slips of paper the boys handed him and apparently enjoyed the visit with the youngsters.

Once during the day Lindbergh gave an inkling of his boredom of his role as hero.

"I am a business man, not a hero," he said, "and I would be thankful if the world let me go unhampered about my business."

Lindbergh said he believed a northern air route to the Pacific coast would be feasible although not so practical as the southern route because of the long winters. He said he planned to send a representative of his Trans-continental Air Transport Inc. over the northern territory to study the ground relative to the air route.

The colonel made known none of his immediate plans but intimated return to New York.

St. Paul, June 21.—(U.P.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off alone in his Ryan monoplane at 11:35 A. M. today for an unnamed destination. Louis W. Hill the colonel's host during his stay here since Tuesday afternoon, said the plane was fuelled for a 1,000 mile journey. It was generally believed Lindbergh was bound for Detroit.

"Slim" who has been here in the interests of the Transcontinental Air Transport Inc., which he represents, was in the best of spirits before his departure.

Louis W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railway was taken with Ralph Budd, president, for a short ride in Lindbergh's plane this morning. Maude Hill and Louis Jr., were also taken for a short cruise over the city.

"It was delightful," Hill said. "I had always determined not to go up in the air but I had no fear with Lindbergh as a pilot."

Lindbergh who conferred with rail, navigation and air officials said he believed a passenger and express airline from St. Paul to the Pacific coast would be feasible. He said he would send a representative of his company to study conditions over the proposed route.

NORTHERN ICE IS REPORTED AS QUICKLY SPLITTING

ICE BREAKER URGED TO BE SENT TO POINT NEAR NORTH CAPE

BRAGANZA, CAUGHT IN TREACHEROUS WATER, UNABLE TO ADVANCE

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 21. —(UP)—Rescue forces in the north combined today to save two polar explorers—General Umberto Nobile, who has been located, and Roald Amundsen, who is missing in a fragile seaplane somewhere in the treacherous ice country.

Relief headquarters here, set up to direct the search for Nobile and his 15 members of the Italia's crew, today were convinced Amundsen had met with misfortune as he started by air to search for Nobile.

Major Maddalena, Italian ace who succeeded in locating the Nobile party and dropping food and supplies to them, will command the Amundsen relief expeditions.

Maddalena will fly in his big seaplane, the same in which he circled over the Nobile encampment Wednesday, to the south of Northeastland, where it is thought Amundsen's plane might have been forced down.

The flying party said they believed ice around the encampment would be easy to break with an ice breaker, but said there were not sufficient open spaces to permit a seaplane to land, and then take off again.

Dog teams probably will be used in the rescue attempt. Three teams are streaking across the ice towards where the block was last reported.

Meanwhile no word has been heard of 10 other members of the Italia's crew. Seven were carried away after the big dirigible was forced down and have neither been seen nor heard from since. Finn Malmgren and two aides started walking across the ice towards Cape North.

Amundsen left Tromsoe, Norway, Monday, in a French seaplane which had been sent north in command of Commandant Guilbaud. Lieutenant Dietrichson accompanied the explorer and the French flyer.

Their machine was equipped with radio—with which they planned to keep in constant communication with stations at Kings Bay and Bear Island—and was sufficiently fueled for a long flight.

It was likely that he had been forced into a landing somewhere in the treacherous waters and this would be dangerous as the northern ice now is breaking up, and the frail seaplane would be at the mercy of the great chunks of ice that abound in the waters.

Aboard the S. S. Braganza, June 21.—Northern ice was splitting up rapidly today, endangering three members of the crew of the Italia who started walking towards North Cape.

So serious has the situation become that Captain H. Riiser-Larsen, Norwegian relief director, has urged that an ice breaker be sent immediately to a point near North Cape. He radioed, "The Braganza, on which we have been advancing, is caught in the treacherous water and we have been unable to advance any farther eastward."

Paris, June 21.—Minister of Marine Leygues today ordered the French destroyer Quentin Roosevelt now at Oslo, and the cruiser Strasbourg, coaling at Cherbourg, to go to northern waters to hunt for the French Farman seaplane in which Roald Amundsen has been missing for nearly three days.

The Farman plane is commanded and piloted by Commandant Rene Guilbaud of the French navy.

Rome, June 21.—Plans were formulated today for Gen. Umberto Nobile and the four uninjured men of the dirigible Italia's crew who were located yesterday on the Arctic ice, to meet the giant Russian ice breaker Krassin at Foyn Island and return to civilization.

The fifth man at Nobile's camp—Chief Engineer Natale Cecioni, who has a broken thigh—will be rescued, it is hoped, by a small seaplane.

Throughout last night and this morning radio messages were relay-

The colonel made the lasting friendship of several boys who invited him into the Hill home for a brief chat with the "Lone Eagle." Lindbergh scrawled his name on slips of paper the boys handed him and apparently enjoyed the visit with the youngsters.

Once during the day Lindbergh gave an inkling of his boredom of his role as hero.

"I am a business man, not a hero," he said, "and I would be thankful if the world let me go unhampered about my business."

Lindbergh said he believed a northern air route to the Pacific coast would be feasible although not so practical as the southern route because of the long winters. He said he planned to send a representative of his Trans-continental Air Transport Inc. over the northern territory to study the ground relative to the air route.

The colonel made known none of his immediate plans but intimated return to New York.

St. Paul, June 21.—(U.P.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off alone in his Ryan monoplane at 11:35 A. M. today for an unnamed destination. Louis W. Hill the colonel's host during his stay here since Tuesday afternoon, said the plane was fuelled for a 1,000 mile journey. It was generally believed Lindbergh was bound for Detroit.

"Slim" who has been here in the interests of the Transcontinental Air Transport Inc., which he represents, was in the best of spirits before his departure.

Louis W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railway was taken with Ralph Budd, president, for a short ride in Lindbergh's plane this morning. Maude Hill and Louis Jr., were also taken for a short cruise over the city.

"It was delightful," Hill said. "I had always determined not to go up in the air but I had no fear with Lindbergh as a pilot."

Lindbergh who conferred with rail, navigation and air officials said he believed a passenger and express airline from St. Paul to the Pacific coast would be feasible. He said he would send a representative of his company to study conditions over the proposed route.

NORTHERN ICE IS REPORTED AS QUICKLY SPLITTING

ICE BREAKER URGED TO BE SENT TO POINT NEAR NORTH CAPE

BRAGANZA, CAUGHT IN TREACHEROUS WATER, UNABLE TO ADVANCE

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 21. —(UP)—Rescue forces in the north combined today to save two polar explorers—General Umberto Nobile, who has been located, and Roald Amundsen, who is missing in a fragile seaplane somewhere in the treacherous ice country.

Relief headquarters here, set up to direct the search for Nobile and his 15 members of the Italia's crew, today were convinced Amundsen had met with misfortune as he started by air to search for Nobile.

Major Maddalena, Italian ace who succeeded in locating the Nobile party and dropping food and supplies to them, will command the Amundsen relief expeditions.

Maddalena will fly in his big seaplane, the same in which he circled over the Nobile encampment Wednesday, to the south of Northeastland, where it is thought Amundsen's plane might have been forced down.

The flying party said they believed ice around the encampment would be easy to break with an ice breaker, but said there were not sufficient open spaces to permit a seaplane to land, and then take off again.

Dog teams probably will be used in the rescue attempt. Three teams are streaking across the ice towards where the block was last reported.

Meanwhile no word has been heard of 10 other members of the Italia's crew. Seven were carried away after the big dirigible was forced down and have neither been seen nor heard from since. Finn Malmgren and two aides started walking across the ice towards Cape North.

Amundsen left Tromsoe, Norway, Monday, in a French seaplane which had been sent north in command of Commandant Guilbaud. Lieutenant Dietrichson accompanied the explorer and the French flyer.

Their machine was equipped with radio—with which they planned to keep in constant communication with stations at Kings Bay and Bear Island—and was sufficiently fueled for a long flight.

It was likely that he had been forced into a landing somewhere in the treacherous waters and this would be dangerous as the northern ice now is breaking up, and the frail seaplane would be at the mercy of the great chunks of ice that abound in the waters.

Aboard the S. S. Braganza, June 21.—Northern ice was splitting up rapidly today, endangering three members of the crew of the Italia who started walking towards North Cape.

So serious has the situation become that Captain H. Riiser-Larsen, Norwegian relief director, has urged that an ice breaker be sent immediately to a point near North Cape. He radioed, "The Braganza, on which we have been advancing, is caught in the treacherous water and we have been unable to advance any farther eastward."

Paris, June 21.—Minister of Marine Leygues today ordered the French destroyer Quentin Roosevelt now at Oslo, and the cruiser Strasbourg, coaling at Cherbourg, to go to northern waters to hunt for the French Farman seaplane in which Roald Amundsen has been missing for nearly three days.

The Farman plane is commanded and piloted by Commandant Rene Guilbaud of the French navy.

Rome, June 21.—Plans were formulated today for Gen. Umberto Nobile and the four uninjured men of the dirigible Italia's crew who were located yesterday on the Arctic ice, to meet the giant Russian ice breaker Krassin at Foyn Island and return to civilization.

The fifth man at Nobile's camp—Chief Engineer Natale Cecioni, who has a broken thigh—will be rescued, it is hoped, by a small seaplane.

Throughout last night and this morning radio messages were relay-

NEW YORK HAILS MEXICO'S 'LINDY'

It was a proud moment for Capt. Emilio Carranza, the "Mexican Lindbergh," when he swooped down out of the clouds at Mitchel Field and received the spontaneous homage which New York reserves for heroic birdmen. His plane, a sister ship of Lindy's "Spirit of St. Louis," came down in a perfect "three point" landing, and an instant later the pilot was in his father's embrace. AN AMAZING PUBLIC TRIBUTE!

Two Thousand Carloads of General Electric Refrigerators Delivered to Users Since April 1st. Nine Factories Working at Top Speed.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator has now been on the market just one year. From the day it was first announced, it was accepted by the public with truly amazing enthusiasm.

Since April 1st, more than 2,000 carloads have been delivered to American homes. This is a gratifying tribute to the General Electric Refrigerator—a true achievement in electrical engineering. It is the worthy product of the Research Laboratories of the world's largest electrical manufacturer.

NINE FACTORIES WORKING AT TOP SPEED

The tremendous demand for these "years ahead" refrigerators has made it necessary to increase production again and again—just as rapidly as is consistent with General Electric standards of quality. Now nine factories are working at top speed to take care of the increasing volume of business. Just as soon as each refrigerator has passed its many rigid tests, it is shipped to a waiting customer. We are assured by the factories that all orders now on file will be filled within the next few weeks.

WE SUGGEST THAT YOU PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW

If you are planning to purchase a refrigerator this summer, we strongly advise you to come in at once, and place your order. Then you will be sure of having your refrigerator just as soon as you are ready for it.
The first 100,000 discriminating American women to choose this revolutionary refrigerator have been its best advertisers. They have pronounced it unusually quiet, economical in operation, easy to keep clean, and worry-proof. It is their verdict which, in a large measure, is responsible for this hearty nation-wide acceptance!

THE KNOT HOLE

Vol. 3 THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1928 No. 25

Published for the information and entertainment of the home-loving folks in Brainerd and vicinity by the Standard Lumber Co.

Now that the District convention is over, the local Lions have settled back to their regular routine. Most of them look about the same.

Build a home first. A home makes life more worth while in every way. We have a number of new plans and want you to feel free to ask for them at any time.

Do you know that you can cover a room 10x12 with heavy maple flooring for as low as $11.20? Why pay as much or more for a temporary floor covering when you can get a life time floor for this price? Other surprising figures will be gladly given you upon request.

We will be glad to publish any church, club or other announcements in our little newspaper. Phone such announcements to us, we want to be useful.

Somebody sent us this one for the Knot Hole:

Dear Editor: A few weeks ago your paper contained an item that a boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. Schmitz at Fort Riley on Saturday. Your informant was correct in every detail except that it was a girl and not a boy; she was born Sunday instead of Saturday; the proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Schwartz instead of Schmitz; and they make their home in Fort Ripley instead of Fort Riley. Otherwise the item was all right. Yours truly, etc.

Most of us get what is coming to us, but often what we get isn't just what we expect.

When are you going to phone us to fill up that coal bin of yours? We have a nice fresh stock of the "hottest" coal we can buy, such as Standard Coal in Lump and Egg sizes, Hard Coal, Briquets, both hard and soft, Coke, Premium Pocahontas, etc. Name your heating plant and we will advise you as to the best fuel for your particular needs.

A wise man never maketh a face at a red-headed girl, nor biteth a mule on the ankle.

AN AMAZING PUBLIC TRIBUTE!

Two Thousand Carloads of General Electric Refrigerators Delivered to Users Since April 1st. Nine Factories Working at Top Speed.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator has now been on the market just one year. From the day it was first announced, it was accepted by the public with truly amazing enthusiasm.

Since April 1st, more than 2,000 carloads have been delivered to American homes. This is a gratifying tribute to the General Electric Refrigerator—a true achievement in electrical engineering. It is the worthy product of the Research Laboratories of the world's largest electrical manufacturer.

NINE FACTORIES WORKING AT TOP SPEED

The tremendous demand for these "years ahead" refrigerators has made it necessary to increase production again and again—just as rapidly as is consistent with General Electric standards of quality. Now nine factories are working at top speed to take care of the increasing volume of business. Just as soon as each refrigerator has passed its many rigid tests, it is shipped to a waiting customer. We are assured by the factories that all orders now on file will be filled within the next few weeks.

WE SUGGEST THAT YOU PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW

If you are planning to purchase a refrigerator this summer, we strongly advise you to come in at once, and place your order. Then you will be sure of having your refrigerator just as soon as you are ready for it.
The first 100,000 discriminating American women to choose this revolutionary refrigerator have been its best advertisers. They have pronounced it unusually quiet, economical in operation, easy to keep clean, and worry-proof. It is their verdict which, in a large measure, is responsible for this hearty nation-wide acceptance!

Vol. 3 THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1928 No. 25

Published for the information and entertainment of the home-loving folks in Brainerd and vicinity by the Standard Lumber Co.

Now that the District convention is over, the local Lions have settled back to their regular routine. Most of them look about the same.

Build a home first. A home makes life more worth while in every way. We have a number of new plans and want you to feel free to ask for them at any time.

Do you know that you can cover a room 10x12 with heavy maple flooring for as low as $11.20? Why pay as much or more for a temporary floor covering when you can get a life time floor for this price? Other surprising figures will be gladly given you upon request.

We will be glad to publish any church, club or other announcements in our little newspaper. Phone such announcements to us, we want to be useful.

Somebody sent us this one for the Knot Hole:

Dear Editor: A few weeks ago your paper contained an item that a boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. Schmitz at Fort Riley on Saturday. Your informant was correct in every detail except that it was a girl and not a boy; she was born Sunday instead of Saturday; the proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Schwartz instead of Schmitz; and they make their home in Fort Ripley instead of Fort Riley. Otherwise the item was all right. Yours truly, etc.

Most of us get what is coming to us, but often what we get isn't just what we expect.

When are you going to phone us to fill up that coal bin of yours? We have a nice fresh stock of the "hottest" coal we can buy, such as Standard Coal in Lump and Egg sizes, Hard Coal, Briquets, both hard and soft, Coke, Premium Pocahontas, etc. Name your heating plant and we will advise you as to the best fuel for your particular needs.

MICKIE SAYS

Love's Ecstasy by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

By parking her little car on a narrow mountain road, Aleda Ray, pretty blue eyed country girl, causes an accident in which two men are injured. One is seriously hurt and Aleda despatches the other, the chauffeur, back to town for a physician. Meanwhile she succeeds in reviving the injured young man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Chapter II.

THERE by the roadside in the Adirondacks, with shafts of golden sunshine filigreeing through the nodding maples, to make dancing patterns on their faces, Aleda's forget-me-not blue eyes looked into grey.

Grey eyes, at first vaguely, then with the light of returning consciousness, drank in the details of that pretty, tear-stained, anxious face.

That butterfly touch of warm young lips upon his hair? He hadn't dreamed it?

And what, in heaven's name, was he doing here by the road?

"Don't move. The accident—" As he made an attempt to struggle into a sitting posture, this unknown damsel slipped an arm beneath his shoulders, and, curled up like a dryad, supported that infernally aching head of his against her knees. "Stay still. I'll change the bandage—" Ah! heavenly coolness of water on his brow!

His eyes closed drowsily. The ache lessening, he was sinking into delicious peace. After a nightmare dream of shock and pain, could this be heaven?

The angel? He opened his eyes again, and gazed into a bit of heaven's own blue. . . .

She was a somewhat tattered angel, bare-legged, with a torn, frayed skirt—but oh! that apple-blossom face! And eyes—he couldn't get beyond those eyes—like wet forget-me-nots, he told himself poetically.

She'd kissed him, hadn't she? Those warm, compassionate young lips of hers had sent a thrill throughout his being, galvanized him back to life. . . .

He didn't wish to move. He felt—oh! queer it was!—too utterly content. Like this—against her soft, sweet body—with the sun streaming downward through the trees upon the apple-blossom face so close to his, he could see over and beyond it the wide expanse of flower-dotted meadow leading down to the blue jewel of a lake.

"Spring in the Austrian Tyrol?" Wasn't there a famous picture—or a replica? The tinkling little stream nearby reminded him of cowbells he had often heard in Europe—and this pretty bare-legged damsel in the tattered gown must surely be—a milkmaid?

This was the life. . . this nearness to the soil. . . Spring ecstasy! He dwelt in the idyllic moment.

And then the milkmaid said—and all the music of the Spring seemed in her voice, although the query was a quaint one:

"Where does it hurt the most?"

The strange young man with the bandaged head made even quainter answer. "In my heart," he said.

At that, the apple-blossom face turned to a deep rose.

"You're joking. And I thought that you were—dead!"

"I am. I'm dead to all life's bores and worries and uglinesses, at this minute. This is heaven," he said.

She gave a soft and throaty little laugh. He thought it blended with the cowbells—or was it the tinkle of the nearby stream?

"Then, if I'm an angel, I am on the wing!" Her supporting arm slipped from his shoulders. She half arose.

"Don't go. I understand now . . . there was a smash . . ." The sea-gray eyes roved to the overturned machine that lay half in the ditch. His face went white. His hand—a capable, finely molded hand that looked as though it had worked hard—groped for Aleda's, caught it vaguely, he slumped back suddenly upon the grass, his eyes closed.

She ran to the stream and got more water, dabbed it on his face and neck. Poor boy! Perhaps for all his brave insouciance, badly injured? She chafed his hands, undid the collar of his rough blue denim shirt.

Would help never come? There was an ominous pallor round that finely chiselled mouth. That frightened her. She thrust a shaking hand under his jacket, over his heart.

Ah, yes! It still was beating. She dabbed more water on his forehead, on his face.

It was a handsome face—clean-cut, and bearing a strange refinement, despite the rough laborer's clothes. The straight and finely modeled nose and strong, square chin were quite in the patrician manner. The eyes, with the long lashes resting on the sunburnt cheek, were closed.

Who could he be? There were deep fountains of romance in this Aleda, and her heart went out in sympathy to the unknown, helpless youth. Hadn't her own carelessness been the cause of the disaster? Suppose he died, or were permanently injured, it certainly would be her fault!

Her heart thudded in remorse—or was it something more?—as she worked over him, striving to "bring him to" again.

And then the dark lashes opened, and the sea-gray eyes were on her face.

"'Fraid I made a darn fool of myself. I'm sorry."

"Now you lie still until the doctor comes."

"All right. I'm tired—dog-tired——" His voice trailed into silence. Tears spattered Aleda's face.

One fell upon his cheek. She wiped it away, tenderly. With the water-soaked bandages, she staunched the blood upon his brow.

His lips moved wordlessly. She stooped her head, put her ear close to his mouth.

"What is it? Let me help. I'm here——" Oh, God! let him get better! Perhaps there was some spinal injury that would make him permanently a cripple? Perhaps—oh! frightful tragedy! and never, never would she forgive herself!—he had a fractured skull, serious internal hurts (how white his face was!) or a broken back?

He was muttering vaguely—she could barely hear it—something about cowbells . . . and Spring in the Tyrol . . . and a milkmaid!

Tears running down her cheeks—a "something" new and wonderful and agonizing in her heart—she whispered: "Tell me. Speak."

And then the words came quaintly, but distinctly:

"'Now, won't you marry me, my Pretty Maid?'

'I'm going a-milking,Sir!' she said."

He was delirious—she knew it—but the words of the old nursery rhyme caught at her heart. Her whole being seemed surcharged with a strange ecstasy—of fear—and bliss—and agony—and hope.

There was the sudden honk-honk of her own approaching car. Beside the driver sat the village doctor. He had come, at last!

"Stand back, and I'll make a quick examination before we move him." The doctor bent over the still figure on the grass.

Aleda waited . . . trembling.

What would the doctor's verdict be?

Harold Lloyd Breezes in With New Comedy in "Speedy"

Just when everyone is beginning to think there is nothing new in comedy, Harold Lloyd pops up with a new picture, and explodes the idea. He does it with a bang with his latest mirthquake "Speedy," in which he gives one of his best characterizations, as well as providing bigger and better laughs than we have had since he issued "The Kid Brother." The new comedy is now showing at the Lyceum theatre and is released by Paramount.

Slow Camera Action

Slow motion pictures are usually taken by a special camera. This camera is hand-driven and turned by the camera man in the same manner as a regular studio camera. It operates at least ten times faster than the ordinary camera and thus portrays slow and more detailed action of the objects taken. However, there is an attachment which takes slow-motion pictures that is used on the regular studio or news reel cameras.

Let us suppose that by paying cash at our Store, carrying your purchases home and taking advantage of the Low Prices our buying power affords, that you have saved $1.00 a week. Is this saving worth while?

If your income is $1,200 a year, a saving of $52.00 means nearly 16 working days of your time. In other words, by taking advantage of the opportunities for thrifty buying given you in a J. C. Penney Company Store, you have saved more than two weeks' pay envelopes. When you recall how hard you worked to earn that money, and how often you have allowed it to be frittered away by thoughtless buying, you will appreciate what $1.00 a week means to you in actual days of labor.

Why work for the "butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker"? Shopping in a J. C. Penney Company Store helps save some of that pay envelope for yourself.

Love's Ecstasy
by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

BY parking her little car on a narrow mountain road, Aleda Ray, pretty blue-eyed country girl, causes an accident in which two men are injured. One is seriously hurt and Aleda despatches the other, the chauffeur, back to town for a physician. Meanwhile she succeeds in reviving the injured young man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Chapter II.

THERE by the roadside in the Adirondacks, with shafts of golden sunshine filigreeing through the nodding maples, to make dancing patterns on their faces, Aleda's forget-me-not blue eyes looked into grey.

Grey eyes, at first vaguely, then with the light of returning consciousness, drank in the details of that pretty, tear-stained, anxious face.

That butterfly touch of warm young lips upon his hair? He hadn't dreamed it?

And what, in heaven's name, was he doing here by the road?

"Don't move. The accident—" As he made an attempt to struggle into a sitting posture, this unknown damsel slipped an arm beneath his shoulders, and, curled up like a dryad, supported that infernally aching head of his against her knees. "Stay still. I'll change the bandage—" Ah! heavenly coolness of water on his brow!

His eyes closed drowsily. The ache lessening, he was sinking into delicious peace. After a nightmare dream of shock and pain, could this be heaven?

The angel? He opened his eyes again, and gazed into a bit of heaven's own blue. . . .

She was a somewhat tattered angel, bare-legged, with a torn, frayed skirt—but oh! that apple-blossom face! And eyes—he couldn't get beyond those eyes—like wet forget-me-nots, he told himself poetically.

She'd kissed him, hadn't she? Those warm, compassionate young lips of hers had sent a thrill throughout his being, galvanized him back to life. . . .

He didn't wish to move. He felt—oh! queer it was!—too utterly content. Like this—against her soft, sweet body—with the sun streaming downward through the trees upon the apple-blossom face so close to his, he could see over and beyond it the wide expanse of flower-dotted meadow leading down to the blue jewel of a lake.

"Spring in the Austrian Tyrol?" Wasn't there a famous picture—or a replica? The tinkling little stream nearby reminded him of cowbells he had often heard in Europe—and this pretty bare-legged damsel in the tattered gown must surely be—a milkmaid?

This was the life. . . this nearness to the soil. . . Spring ecstasy! He dwelt in the idyllic moment.

And then the milkmaid said—and all the music of the Spring seemed in her voice, although the query was a quaint one:

"Where does it hurt the most?"

The strange young man with the bandaged head made even quainter answer. "In my heart," he said.

At that, the apple-blossom face turned to a deep rose.

"You're joking. And I thought that you were—dead!"

"I am. I'm dead to all life's bores and worries and uglinesses, at this minute. This is heaven," he said.

She gave a soft and throaty little laugh. He thought it blended with the cowbells—or was it the tinkle of the nearby stream?

"Then, if I'm an angel, I am on the wing!" Her supporting arm slipped from his shoulders. She half arose.

"Don't go. I understand now . . . there was a smash . . ." The sea-gray eyes roved to the overturned machine that lay half in the ditch. His face went white. His hand—a capable, finely molded hand that looked as though it had worked hard—groped for Aleda's, caught it vaguely, he slumped back suddenly upon the grass, his eyes closed.

She ran to the stream and got more water, dabbed it on his face and neck. Poor boy! Perhaps for all his brave insouciance, badly injured? She chafed his hands, undid the collar of his rough blue denim shirt.

Would help never come? There was an ominous pallor round that finely chiselled mouth. That frightened her. She thrust a shaking hand under his jacket, over his heart.

Ah, yes! It still was beating. She dabbed more water on his forehead, on his face.

It was a handsome face—clean-cut, and bearing a strange refinement, despite the rough laborer's clothes. The straight and finely modeled nose and strong, square chin were quite in the patrician manner. The eyes, with the long lashes resting on the sunburnt cheek, were closed.

Who could he be? There were deep fountains of romance in this Aleda, and her heart went out in sympathy to the unknown, helpless youth. Hadn't her own carelessness been the cause of the disaster? Suppose he died, or were permanently injured, it certainly would be her fault!

Her heart thudded in remorse—or was it something more?—as she worked over him, striving to "bring him to" again.

And then the dark lashes opened, and the sea-gray eyes were on her face.

"'Fraid I made a darn fool of myself. I'm sorry."

"Now you lie still until the doctor comes."

"All right. I'm tired—dog-tired——" His voice trailed into silence. Tears spattered Aleda's face.

One fell upon his cheek. She wiped it away, tenderly. With the water-soaked bandages, she staunched the blood upon his brow.

His lips moved wordlessly. She stooped her head, put her ear close to his mouth.

"What is it? Let me help. I'm here——" Oh, God! let him get better! Perhaps there was some spinal injury that would make him permanently a cripple? Perhaps—oh! frightful tragedy! and never, never would she forgive herself!—he had a fractured skull, serious internal hurts (how white his face was!) or a broken back?

He was muttering vaguely—she could barely hear it—something about cowbells . . . and Spring in the Tyrol . . . and a milkmaid!

Tears running down her cheeks—a "something" new and wonderful and agonizing in her heart—she whispered: "Tell me. Speak."

And then the words came quaintly, but distinctly:

"'Now, won't you marry me, my Pretty Maid?'

'I'm going a-milking,Sir!' she said."

He was delirious—she knew it—but the words of the old nursery rhyme caught at her heart. Her whole being seemed surcharged with a strange ecstasy—of fear—and bliss—and agony—and hope.

There was the sudden honk-honk of her own approaching car. Beside the driver sat the village doctor. He had come, at last!

"Stand back, and I'll make a quick examination before we move him." The doctor bent over the still figure on the grass.

Aleda waited . . . trembling.

What would the doctor's verdict be?

Harold Lloyd Breezes in With New Comedy in "Speedy"

Just when everyone is beginning to think there is nothing new in comedy, Harold Lloyd pops up with a new picture, and explodes the idea. He does it with a bang with his latest mirthquake "Speedy," in which he gives one of his best characterizations, as well as providing bigger and better laughs than we have had since he issued "The Kid Brother." The new comedy is now showing at the Lyceum theatre and is released by Paramount.

Slow Camera Action

Slow motion pictures are usually taken by a special camera. This camera is hand-driven and turned by the camera man in the same manner as a regular studio camera. It operates at least ten times faster than the ordinary camera and thus portrays slow and more detailed action of the objects taken. However, there is an attachment which takes slow-motion pictures that is used on the regular studio or news reel cameras.

What $1.00 a Week Means To You In Days of Labor

Let us suppose that by paying cash at our Store, carrying your purchases home and taking advantage of the Low Prices our buying power affords, that you have saved $1.00 a week. Is this saving worth while?

If your income is $1,200 a year, a saving of $52.00 means nearly 16 working days of your time. In other words, by taking advantage of the opportunities for thrifty buying given you in a J. C. Penney Company Store, you have saved more than two weeks' pay envelopes. When you recall how hard you worked to earn that money, and how often you have allowed it to be frittered away by thoughtless buying, you will appreciate what $1.00 a week means to you in actual days of labor.

Why work for the "butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker"? Shopping in a J. C. Penney Company Store helps save some of that pay envelope for yourself.

PROTECTING STATES' RIGHTS

ASSERTING that the states are in serious danger of losing their sovereign rights, G. A. Youngquist, attorney general of Minnesota, addressed the Conopus club of St. Paul and the St. Paul Pioneer Press, in quoting his address, said:

"The prevailing tendency of the day is to overload the Federal government," said Mr. Youngquist. "The desire to delegate work to the Federal government is only natural," he said, "but we must not forget while receiving this aid that the state loses more and more of its power."

"When the Constitution was drawn its composers did not realize the future extent of interstate commerce. The Federal government's power over commerce has been derived mainly through the Constitution. Intervention in state power affairs has often turned out to be detrimental to the state," Mr. Youngquist added.

We believe, as does Mr. Youngquist, that a state should be vigilant and protect its powers, rights and privileges. Before any appeal is ever made for federal aid, it should first exhaust every other remedy. States' rights, once taken over by Federal authority, establish a precedent and are hard to regain.

A state should glory in the rights it possesses, should leave no privileges grow dim or dusty, aenemic or atrophied. A vigilant commonwealth commands respect.

When Chicago's gangland bid fair to rule the city, it was a most harrowing spectacle to see some Chicagoans appealing to the Federal government to "save" the town.'

THE LOWLY PEDESTRIAN

NOW that traffic is increasing, the automatic "stop and go" sign is religiously observed by long lines of cars, but the lowly pedestrian, as usual, walks against a "go" sign and holds up the traffic.

If six cars are in line and the pedestrian delays the line, the last man is frequently tied up and has to wait for the next flash of a "go." Pedestrians as well as cars should observe the "stop and go" and work harmoniously.

Brainerd is notorious for the number of pedestrians who cut diagonally across an intersection, who pop out in the middle of a block and calmly walk across the street while the car owner, hemmed in by traffic, is forced to slow down or stop. This kind of "jay walking" is not tolerated in large cities, and a "jay walker' injured when breaking ordinary traffic rules, has little or no chance of recovery against a car which accidentally hits him.

Pedestrians and motorists should work together and both observe ordinary, common sense traffic rules.

PRAIRIE DUSK

IN a little prose poem, the Christian Science Monitor refers in this fashion to "Prairie Dusk."

Soft winds—the pearl gray arch of the skies deepening rapidly—low clouds heavy with unshed rain—the vast quiet of the prairies, unbroken and majestic.

From the distance the first few lights of the city twinkled out into the gathering dusk. The wind that blew over the plains, now full and free, now a mere whisper, was scented with the coming rain—cool, damp, fragrant.

The clouds gathered lower, grayer, and seemed waiting to spill the downpour over their edges. Momentarily the little wind stopped—the calm before the storm.

Then—out of the dusk of the clouds, sweet and piercing, came the clear call of a meadowlark: Soaring, singing—blithe notes from the invisible little musician.

19 SMALL ASSEMBLIES DISCUSSING VOCATIONAL SERVICE

Minneapolis, June 21. —(UP) — The 19th annual convention of International Rotary was to be broken up into a series of small assemblies here today following the election of district governors.

Voting booths were to be open during the morning and delegates were to cast ballots for five district governors in the United States, one in Canada and one in Great Britain and Ireland.

The 19 small assemblies were called for the discussion of vocational service among the more than 2,000 units spread among the 44 countries embraced by the service organization.

Special dinners were arranged for this evening at various hotels including the British Empire dinner and that of the Spanish and Portuguese dinner.

Tonight the 14,000 delegates will be entertained at a huge water festival on Lake Calhoun. There will be fireworks, a sham naval battle and aerial exhibitions.

The delegates dropped business last night for a ball in the auditorium.

The convention will be terminated tomorrow night.

Odd Tropical Disease

Vitiligo is a disease characterized by the disappearance of pigment from the skin. While comparatively rare in America and Europe, this disease is common in tropical countries. In most cases white patches are formed, around whose edges the pigment is darker. Gradually the spots coalesce, and finally the white area may cover the whole body.

FEAR MUTINEERS MAY HAVE GAINED CONTROL OF SHIP

London, June 21.—(U.P.)—Fear that mutineers may have gained control of the steamship Jervis Bay, carrying about 600 passengers, was contained in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received here today from Colombo.

The fuel auxiliary steamer Slavol, dispatched to pick up the Jervis Bay and escort her to Colombo, reported at midday that communication had not been established with the Jervis Bay for six hours, the Exchange Telegraph said.

Colombo, Ceylon, June 21.—(UP)—Twenty British navy seamen, in command of Lieut. Whitfield, left Trincomalee tonight in the auxiliary collier Slavol to escort to Colombo the Australian steamship Jervis Bay, which was silent for fifteen hours after her commander radioed for help to cope with desperate mutineers.

Lieut. Whitfield is to take charge of the vessel, which, with 600 passengers and a crew of 120, is due here Monday.

The seamen are from the cruiser Enterprise, which had been in communication with the Jervies. The steamship's last message said that eight desperate stowaways were held with passengers and volunteers from the crew guarding them constantly, but that they had tried to burn the ship and incite others to mutiny.

One Rotarian got a call from Minneapolis and his friend said: "Hey, listen and you can hear one of the Rotary bands play." And the earful of music is all he got of the convention.

TALKING to I. C. Strout, general convention chairman of the Lions district convention, and who worked day and night on the job, Mr. Strout says he can still see a flood of Lions when he shuts his eyes.

GOT a card from a personal analysis bureau which promised to give that service. It's useless. Any married man can have his wife tell him that kind of stuff gratis.

SMALL GROUPS BUSY AT MEET OF ROTARIANS

5 DISTRICT GOVERNORS TO BE ELECTED, POLLS OPEN IN MORNING

19 SMALL ASSEMBLIES DISCUSSING VOCATIONAL SERVICE

Minneapolis, June 21. —(UP) — The 19th annual convention of International Rotary was to be broken up into a series of small assemblies here today following the election of district governors.

Voting booths were to be open during the morning and delegates were to cast ballots for five district governors in the United States, one in Canada and one in Great Britain and Ireland.

The 19 small assemblies were called for the discussion of vocational service among the more than 2,000 units spread among the 44 countries embraced by the service organization.

Special dinners were arranged for this evening at various hotels including the British Empire dinner and that of the Spanish and Portuguese dinner.

Tonight the 14,000 delegates will be entertained at a huge water festival on Lake Calhoun. There will be fireworks, a sham naval battle and aerial exhibitions.

The delegates dropped business last night for a ball in the auditorium.

The convention will be terminated tomorrow night.

Odd Tropical Disease

Vitiligo is a disease characterized by the disappearance of pigment from the skin. While comparatively rare in America and Europe, this disease is common in tropical countries. In most cases white patches are formed, around whose edges the pigment is darker. Gradually the spots coalesce, and finally the white area may cover the whole body.

"Flies have caused more deaths than all wars," says Major Ransom of the Medical Department of the United States Army. "Since the fly came into the world it has been synonymous with epidemics of pestilence and disease." FEAR MUTINEERS MAY HAVE GAINED CONTROL OF SHIP

London, June 21.—(U.P.)—Fear that mutineers may have gained control of the steamship Jervis Bay, carrying about 600 passengers, was contained in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received here today from Colombo.

The fuel auxiliary steamer Slavol, dispatched to pick up the Jervis Bay and escort her to Colombo, reported at midday that communication had not been established with the Jervis Bay for six hours, the Exchange Telegraph said.

Colombo, Ceylon, June 21.—(UP)—Twenty British navy seamen, in command of Lieut. Whitfield, left Trincomalee tonight in the auxiliary collier Slavol to escort to Colombo the Australian steamship Jervis Bay, which was silent for fifteen hours after her commander radioed for help to cope with desperate mutineers.

Lieut. Whitfield is to take charge of the vessel, which, with 600 passengers and a crew of 120, is due here Monday.

The seamen are from the cruiser Enterprise, which had been in communication with the Jervies. The steamship's last message said that eight desperate stowaways were held with passengers and volunteers from the crew guarding them constantly, but that they had tried to burn the ship and incite others to mutiny.

30,000 CUSTOMERS TO SEE THE WALKER-HUDKINS BATTLE

MIDDLEWEIGHT FIGHT GREATEST OF MODERN TIMES

TO BE HELD IN BIG CHICAGO AMERICAN LEAGUE BALL PARK TONIGHT

CHAMPION IS 2 TO 1 FAVORITE AMONG THE SPORTING GENTRY TODAY

Chicago, Ill., June 21.—(UP) — Thirty thousand spectators will watch one of the greatest middleweight fights of modern times tonight.

Shoulder to shoulder in the darkness of the big Chicago American League ball park, their eyes will be fixed upon a white splash of canvas across which Mickey Walker, the champion, and Ace Hudkins, the challenger, will stride and strive and strike until, in all probability, one of them goes down into the blood and dust and resin and stays there.

The champion was a 2 to 1 favorite among the sporting gentry today. Mickey Walker's advantage in weight, boxing skill and punching power could not be gainsaid for all the optimism in Nebraska.

Ace Hudkins, after the manner of boxers, is sublimely confident of victory.

"I have brought my six brothers and my sister to see the fight, and I am not going to disappoint them," explains the challenger.

According to dapper little Jack Kearns, whose job as Walker's manager is the reason Tex Rickard did not pluck this rich fistic plum, the Nebraskan will not be standing after the sixth round.

"We," said Mr. Kearns, "will take him in six rounds."

The challenger's backers and Hudkins himself believe that if the Ace can get past the half way mark in tonight's fight he can wear down Walker and win going away.

This would seem, however, to be one championship bout in which odds of 2 to 1 on the title-holder are justified.

It hardly is likely that the presence of the seven little Hudkinses gaping ringward from the surrounding darkness will disturb Mickey Walker. Should he have any qualms, the champion has only to recall what happened in New York the night Col. Charles A. Lindbergh struggled through an admiring throng to the ringside to watch his fellow townsman, this self-same Ace, battle Sergeant Sammy Baker.

From the prompt way in which the little soldier from Mitchel Field stopped Hudkins that night, one would have imagined that Lindy had his signals crossed and was rooting for the air service.

Chicago, June 21.—The weather bureau today gave little encouragement to fight fans expecting to attend the middleweight championship fight between Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins here tonight.

The bureau predicted cloudy weather and probable thunder showers for this afternoon and tonight. The sun was breaking through clouds this afternoon.

Because of the facilities in regard to the school playgrounds the program has been changed, beginning tomorrow. McLARNIN TO SOCK McGRAW IN BOUT TONIGHT

New York, June 21.—(U.P.)—Jimmy McLarnin will attempt to hoist himself back into the lightweight limelight by knocking out Phil McGraw, the rugged Detroit Greek, in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Victory for McLarnin means another chance at Sammy Mandell's lightweight championship which the Pacific coast lad reached for in May, but could not touch because of Mandell's superb defense.

Promoter Jim Mullen of Chicago has offered McLarnin a return bout with Mandell at Chicago in August, contingent upon his victory over McGraw.

GOPHER STATE TRAP SHOOT STARTS TODAY

LAST YEAR'S CHAMPIONS CONGREGATING AT BREEZY POINT

FIRST DAY'S EVENTS TODAY ARE OF A PREPARATORY NATURE

Breezy Point, Minn., June 21. — The most outstanding field of marksmen ever assembled in the Northwest was mobilized today at Breezy Point for the forty-fourth annual competition of the Minnesota State Trap Shooting Association, which opens today.

The first day's event, however, will be of a preparatory nature and the 150 targets on the schedule will not be registered. Shooting will begin at 1 P. M.

Last year's champions who will be on the grounds to defend their laurels include Dav Fauskee of Worthington in the singles and Ivan Dartt of Litchfield in the doubles. Richard Berens of Litchfield in the handicap. Lester Troeh, Breckenridge, in the diamond badge event and James Guthrie, St. Paul, in the all-around event.

Last year's professional champions are David Flannigan of Waverly, singles; John Harker, doubles, L. E. West, Minneapolis, handicap and all-around championship.

Among the well known shots who arrived today were John Hahn, of Spirit Lake, Iowa, one of the world's best masters at the 16-yard line, and David Flannigan, recognized as one of the best all-around shots with pistol, rifle and shotgun; Tony Chezik of Portal, N. D.; Dr. F. S. Cook, Eau Claire, Wis.; D. L. King, Winona, noted big game hunter and sportsman; Clarence Parker, Minot, N. D., and H. P. Nicklan, Durant, Wis.

This year's shoot is under auspices of the Breezy Point Gun Club, of which Captain Billy Fawcett of this place is president. He was captain and manager of the American Olympic trap shooting team at the games in Paris in 1924.

JAMESTOWN GUNNER WINS N. D. CROWN

Grand Forks, June 21. — D. C. Rand of Jamestown, won the 1928 trapshooting doubles championship of the North Dakota sportsman association, in the thirty-third annual tournament here Sunday. Rand scored 93 out of 50 pairs of targets. Two other scores were higher in the doubles. McGinnis of Minneapolis broke 95, and Plummer of Swan River, Manitoba, hit 94, but both were from cut of the state and ineligible. Tony Chezik of Portal, N. D., broke 100 straight targets in the classification singles to take first in class A.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Garland Braxton, Washington Senators, who pitched a four-hit shutout against the Boston Red Sox, the score being 8 to 0.

The St. Louis Cardinals tightened their grip on first place by beating the Chicago Cubs 6 to 2.

Don Hurst, Phillies first baseman, continued hitting hard, helping his team defeat Brooklyn 6 to 2. He hit his eighth home run and a single.

Pie Traynor sprinted from first to home on Pete Scott's single and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1.

Harry McCurdy's home run with the bases filled enabled the Chicago White Sox to beat the Cleveland Indians 6 to 4, in the first game. Errors cost them the second game, the Indians winning 4 to 3.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Yankees split a doubleheader, the first game going to the Athletics 10 to 5, and the second to New York 9 to 3.

Clash for Middleweight Championship Tonight

Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, with his manager, Jack Kearns. Mickey is picked by the experts to beat Ace Hudkins in a title bout at Chicago tonight.

"Ace" Hudkins is shown here with two of his attendants in the ring during training bout at Chicago. His wild hitting style makes him the underdog in the fight with Mickey Walker for the middleweight crown tonight.

Golf Complexes

By QUIN HALL.

YOU'VE probably all heard of the taxi guy who helped cure up a pernicious case of inferiority complex by driving his empty cab through the streets on a rainy night and acting snooty to the high-hat gents on the curbing, who were frantically screaming for transportation.

It has become so that complexes are as numerous as the common or garden variety of dandelion. In one way or another most of us are weighted down with a few choice species and the realm of sport hasn't escaped in the general distribution.

There must be some reason for a lot of the things that happen in sports and it's just as well to tack the blame onto complexes as anything else—a complex being one of those elastic things which will stand for a lot of abuse.

Take, for example, the case of "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, the towheaded pro from Pittsburgh, who is one of our greatest golfers. Bill may deny emphatically that he is fathering a pet complex but there must be some valid reason why he is always leading qualifiers and trailing winners in the major open tournaments. And there may be a complex hidden away somewhere which Bill knows nothing about.

The U. S. open championship matches get under way today at Olympia Fields, in Chicago. Will history repeat itself or will Mehlhorn be able to shake off his complex or his jinx, or whatever it is, that always interferes with his late play in important tournaments, and win this year's open? Bill led early in the British open played recently at Sandwich, but slipped badly after topping the field at the end of the first 18 holes.

There's no disputing the fact that Mehlhorn is a great shot. Bill can score as long as he keeps his long drives on the fairway. A couple of hooked-tee shots and he seems to go all to pieces and is, apparently, never able to snap out of it. He has been playing in major tournaments pretty consistently over a spread of years and while he's usually in the money, he has never been posted as a champion, and there are a lot of the golf fans who are rulling for him in the present open, simply because they feel that he really deserves a "break."

Abe Mitchell is another golfer of outstanding prominence who has a "British open complex." In match play or lesser medal tests Mitchell belongs to the class known as mighty. Every year as the British open bobs up Abe is touted strongly as a favorite to win the classic but every year he fades out of the picture.

This year Mitchell won the Ryder Cup professional match-play tournament at Rochampton, shortly before the British open. He was functioning with all the team work of a fine watch and the Britishers gave him a great chance to cop in the open but Abe trailed Hagen, the winner, by nineteen strokes.

Complexes or not, there must be some reason for such reversals and if the boys could take the place of a taxi driver on a rainy night it might iron out some of their difficulties.

McLARNIN TO SOCK McGRAW IN BOUT TONIGHT

New York, June 21.—(U.P.)—Jimmy McLarnin will attempt to hoist himself back into the lightweight limelight by knocking out Phil McGraw, the rugged Detroit Greek, in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Victory for McLarnin menas another chance at Sammy Mandell's lightweight championship which the Pacific coast lad reached for in May, but could not touch because of Mandell's superb defense.

Promoter Jim Mullen of Chicago has offered McLarnin a return bout with Mandell at Chicago in August, contingent upon his victory over McGraw.

GOPHER STATE TRAP SHOOT STARTS TODAY

LAST YEAR'S CHAMPIONS CONGREGATING AT BREEZY POINT

FIRST DAY'S EVENTS TODAY ARE OF A PREPARATORY NATURE

Breezy Point, Minn., June 21. — The most outstanding field of marksmen ever assembled in the Northwest was mobilized today at Breezy Point for the forty-fourth annual competition of the Minnesota State Trap Shooting Association, which opens today.

The first day's event, however, will be of a preparatory nature and the 150 targets on the schedule will not be registered. Shooting will begin at 1 P. M.

Last year's champions who will be on the grounds to defend their laurels include Dav Fauskee of Worthington in the singles and Ivan Dartt of Litchfield in the doubles, Richard Berens of Litchfield in the handicap, Lester Troeh, Breckenridge, in the diamond badge event and James Guthrie, St. Paul, in the all-around event.

Last year's professional champions are David Flannigan of Waverly, singles; John Harker, doubles, L. E. West, Minneapolis, handicap and all-around championship.

Among the well known shots who arrived today were John Hahn, of Spirit Lake, Iowa, one of the world's best masters at the 16-yard line, and David Flannigan, recognized as one of the best all-around shots with pistol, rifle and shotgun; Tony Chezik of Portal, N. D.; Dr. F. S. Cook, Eau Claire, Wis.; D. L. King, Winona, noted big game hunter and sportsman; Clarence Parker, Minot, N. D., and H. P. Nicklan, Durant, Wis.

This year's shoot is under auspices of the Breezy Point Gun Club, of which Captain Billy Fawcett of this place is president. He was captain and manager of the American Olympic trap shooting team at the games in Paris in 1924.

JAMESTOWN GUNNER WINS N. D. CROWN

Grand Forks, June 21. — D. C. Rand of Jamestown, won the 1928 trapshooting doubles championship of the North Dakota sportsman association, in the thirty-third annual tournament here Sunday. Rand scored 93 out of 50 pairs of targets. Two other scores were higher in the doubles. McGinnis of Minneapolis broke 95, and Plummer of Swan River, Manitoba, hit 94, but both were from cut of the state and ineligible. Tony Chezik of Portal, N. D., broke 100 straight targets in the classification singles to take first in class A.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Garland Braxton, Washington Senators, who pitched a four-hit shutout against the Boston Red Sox, the score being 8 to 0.

The St. Louis Cardinals tightened their grip on first place by beating the Chicago Cubs 6 to 2.

Don Hurst, Phillies first baseman, continued hitting hard, helping his team defeat Brooklyn 6 to 2. He hit his eighth home run and a single.

Pie Traynor sprinted from first to home on Pete Scott's single and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1.

Harry McCurdy's home run with the bases filled enabled the Chicago White Sox to beat the Cleveland Indians 6 to 4, in the first game. Errors cost them the second game, the Indians winning 4 to 3.

The Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Yankees split a doubleheader, the first game going to the Athletics 10 to 5, and the second to New York 9 to 3.

Clash for Middleweight Championship Tonight

Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, with his manager, Jack Kearns. Mickey is picked by the experts to beat Ace Hudkins in a title bout at Chicago tonight.

"Ace" Hudkins is shown here with two of his attendants in the ring during training bout at Chicago. His wild hitting style makes him the underdog in the fight with Mickey Walker for the middleweight crown tonight.

Golf Complexes

© 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

By QUIN HALL.

YOU'VE probably all heard of the taxi guy who helped cure up a pernicious case of inferiority complex by driving his empty cab through the streets on a rainy night and acting snooty to the high-hat gents on the curbing, who were frantically screaming for transportation.

It has become so that complexes are as numerous as the common or garden variety of dandelion. In one way or another most of us are weighted down with a few choice species and the realm of sport hasn't escaped in the general distribution.

There must be some reason for a lot of the things that happen in sports and it's just as well to tack the blame onto complexes as anything else—a complex being one of those elastic things which will stand for a lot of abuse.

Take, for example, the case of "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, the towheaded pro from Pittsburgh, who is one of our greatest golfers. Bill may deny emphatically that he is fathering a pet complex but there must be some valid reason why he is always leading qualifiers and trailing winners in the major open tournaments. And there may be a complex hidden away somewhere which Bill knows nothing about.

The U. S. open championship matches get under way today at Olympia Fields, in Chicago. Will history repeat itself or will Mehlhorn be able to shake off his complex or his jinx, or whatever it is, that always interferes with his late play in important tournaments, and win this year's open? Bill led early in the British open played recently at Sandwich, but slipped badly after topping the field at the end of the first 18 holes.

There's no disputing the fact that Mehlhorn is a great shot. Bill can score as long as he keeps his long drives on the fairway. A couple of hooked-tee shots and he seems to go all to pieces and is, apparently, never able to snap out of it. He has been playing in major tournaments pretty consistently over a spread of years and while he's usually in the money, he has never been posted as a champion, and there are a lot of the golf fans who are rulling for him in the present open, simply because they feel that he really deserves a "break."

Abe Mitchell is another golfer of outstanding prominence who has a "British open complex." In match play or lesser medal tests Mitchell belongs to the class known as mighty. Every year as the British open bobs up Abe is touted strongly as a favorite to win the classic but every year he fades out of the picture.

This year Mitchell won the Ryder Cup professional match-play tournament at Roehampton, shortly before the British open. He was functioning with all the team work of a fine watch and the Britishers gave him a great chance to cop in the open but Abe trailed Hagen, the winner, by nineteen strokes.

Complexes or not, there must be some reason for such reversals and if the boys could take the place of a taxi driver on a rainy night it might iron out some of their difficulties.

One hundred and sixty-seven collegiate loan scholarships will be provided by the American Bankers Association, 98 of which are now being proffered to 71 selected colleges and universities in 34 states, it has been announced by John H. Puelicher, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Association's Foundation for Education in Economics. Does He Like to Eat?

Tried my

The way to a man's heart is through his stomach, so they say. This is, of course, an interesting theory, especially to the girl who knows she can cook. But let us go farther and see what the general nature of the always-hungry type is:

The person who is constantly thinking about feeding himself makes a heavy bold stroke throughout his writing. He naturally is thinking of himself when he craves something to satisfy his appetite, whatever that appetite might crave. When he is constantly on the lookout for something to put into his stomach, he sometimes forgets to put something into his mind. He will make down strokes that seem to reach way down into the ground. His terminals will not run out toward the next word, but down. T's and d's will not reach high into the heavens. T bars will be bold and emphatic, literally saying, "give me."

Lower loops will bend off toward right. Words will decrease in size as they go on. Capitals will not be much larger than rest of word. This writer should know that when you can master appetite, you can do anything in the world. Will, is then, supreme.

Fetch and Carry

The man who has ideas
Is above the common rout;
But ideas bring in nothing
Unless they are carried out.

Paramount Thought

"Look, dear," said Miss Peachley, "a dozen beautiful roses from Jack Poore. I wonder what's on the dear boy's mind."

"Probably the cost of the roses," responded her sarcastic friend.

Denied the Allegation

"I hear that you said I was the biggest fool in town."

"No, sir, I did not. I do not consider you capable of taking first rank in anything."

Comfort

John—Did you bathe much while you were down South?

Mae—Yes, but when it was too hot and stuffy to put on a bathing suit we just lounged in our ordinary things.

In the Suburbs

"That's my place you see over there—the house and the garage close by."

"Which is the garage, old man?"

SCARCELY THE SAME

She—Didn't you say her acting was just lovely?

He—No—I said she was a lovely actress.

Not Properly Preserved

Their acquaintance ripened into love
And then, alas, it got
Quite over-ripe; at least there came
A time when it seemed all rot.

The Why of It

"What is life insurance, little Gagface?"

"It's keeping a man poor all his life so's he can die rich."

Almond Varieties

Almonds are of two kinds—bitter and sweet. The bitter almond is cultivated to a limited extent in Mediterranean countries, and the nuts are used in the manufacture of flavoring extracts and of prussic acid. The sweet, or edible, almond is grown on a commercial scale in the south of Europe, in California and in some other countries.

Utilized Old Reservoir

Shortly after the occupation of Jerusalem by the British, water was brought to the city from the reservoir originally built nearly 2,000 years ago by Pontius Pilate. This reservoir is known as "Birkeit Arrout," and lies a few miles south of the pool of Siloam. The reservoir was repaired and enlarged, and now has a capacity of 5,000,000 gallons.

NANCY'S own kitchen had been undergoing improvements, along with the others. And, as might have been expected, its color scheme was a little out of the ordinary. For Nancy, as you may remember, was an artist, and not at all afraid to experiment with color.

Her house was Colonial in style, and the woodwork throughout was white, with mahogany trim. In her kitchen, the door and window frames were of mahogany color, with all the built-in furniture, white. Walls, lavender-gray, very light. Curtains, sea blue, bordered with French blue and lavender. Floor, light gray linoleum. Oval rugs of French blue, with bands of sea blue and lavender. Breakfast table, sea blue trimmed with French blue. Chairs, French blue, trimmed with sea blue. Oil range, pots and pans, snow-white.

"I got stage fright at the thought of cooking for you experts," she told the assembled Kitchen Club. "But I have some good sandwich recipes I'm going to give you."

"I always break the first rule of sandwich making—to use day-old bread. It does make much neater sandwiches, but they are not nearly so good as those made with fresh bread. I have a very sharp knife, and use it with the lightest pressure possible."

These are the recipes I gave the Club:

Toasted Nut Sandwiches

Toast over a slow fire pecans, English walnuts or blanched almonds in butter and salt, constantly stirring. Slice fresh bread and spread thinly with olive oil mayonnaise. Sprinkle with the nuts, using the toasted butter as part of the spread. Are best if served immediately.

Cheese and Nut Sandwiches

Run fresh American cheese through a food chopper until it is puffy. Mix with enough evaporated milk to make a paste. Do not use fresh milk. For this recipe, the evaporated is far better. Season with salt and red pepper. Mix with nuts and spread on fresh bread without mayonnaise. While this sandwich is better if eaten at once, it can stand for hours, if necessary, and still be good.

Cheese and Pimiento Sandwiches

Run American cheese through food chopper until it is puffy. Mix with chopped canned pimiento and enough olive oil mayonnaise to spread nicely. This filling will keep for days, but is better eaten at once.

"Pick Up Supper" Sandwiches

Toast bread on one side. On soft side spread mayonnaise. Lay on this a lettuce leaf, two slices of tomato and two of crisp, hot bacon. Salt and pepper. Serve at once.

Chicken Salad Sandwiches

Chopped chicken, sweet pickle, chopped hard-boiled eggs. Pepper, salt, celery salt. A little chopped celery. Moisten with mayonnaise and spread on bread.

Cheese Dreams

These are hard to digest, but oh, so good on cold nights! Crumble fresh American cheese on fresh bread. Salt. Cover with another slice. Toast in frying pan with butter. When brown on one side turn and toast on the other. Serve at once.

Cake and Bread Box

I showed the Kitchen Club the combination cake and bread box I found at Green's yesterday. It has two compartments. Comes in half-a-dozen different colors. I got one. But, as I already had a cake box, I'm going to put silver in the top compartment of mine.

Vanishing Garbage Bucket

One store showed me a garbage bucket with an attachment to fasten it to the pipe under a kitchen sink. It pulls out on a lever to fill, and is pushed back out of sight when one is through with it. It comes in beautiful, bright colors, though, and it seems a shame to hide it.

Vegetable Bin

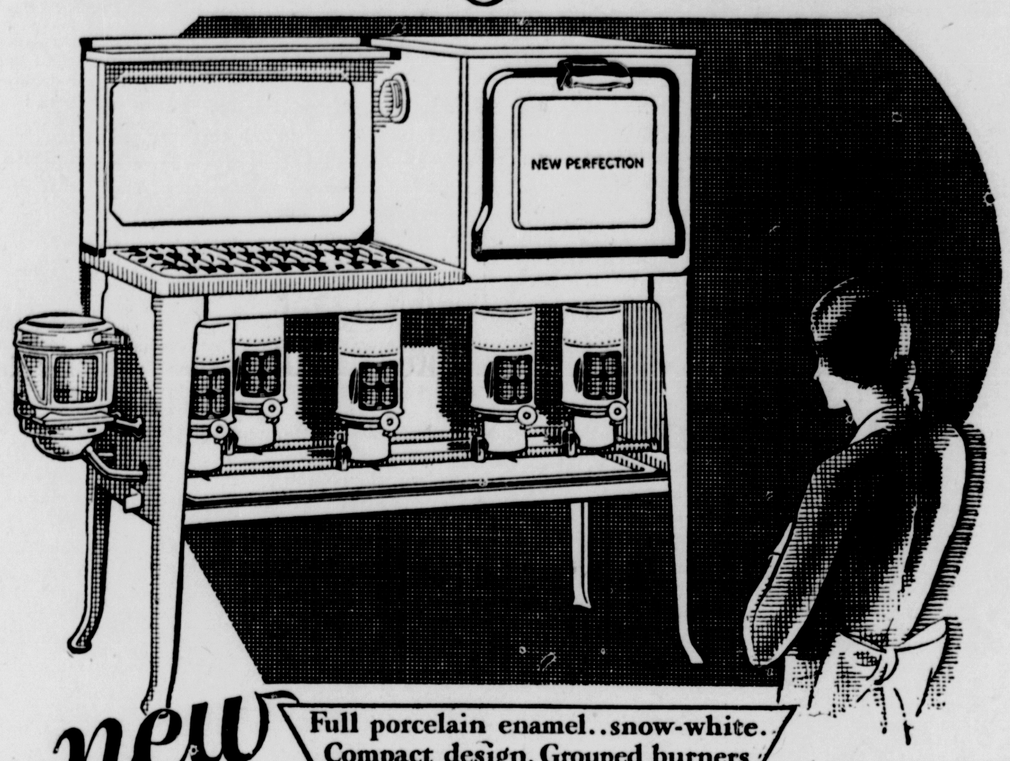

I found a wonderful new vegetable bin to tell the Kitchen Club about. It has three "stories," each ventilated. The bottom one could hold potatoes, the next, apples, and the two small ones at the top, onions and beans. The bin comes in tin, all different colors.

Committee of Five Interview Growers Throughout County as to Prospects

Membership Drive Arranged; Tentative Date Placed for Close of Next Week

A committee of five composed of Dr. G. I. Badeaux, chairman, Dr. L. F. Hawkinson, W. J. Turcotte, A. A. Arnold, A. P. Cardle, were interviewing peony growers throughout the county this afternoon with respect to the prospects of holding a peony show in Brainerd this season.

The inclement weather has had a great deal to do with the backwardness of peonies this season and while there are no outstanding flowers of merit it is felt that a show can be held if all growers enter.

Appointment of the committee came at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Crow Wing County Flower and Garden society at the Chamber of Commerce rooms attended by 19 members.

The members also agreed on a membership drive urging each member to secure one additional. Pequot, Nisswa, Crosby, Ironton, Cuyuna, and Riverton growers will be invited to become members. The cost of membership, one dollar, entitles the member to full privileges of the society as well as a year's subscription to the magazine "Better Homes and Gardens." The membership money is used in the purchase of prizes.

It is the hope to conduct the peony show at the court house the close of next week.

The following committees have been named:

General arrangements committee: A. A. Arnold, chairman; Dr. L. F. Hawkinson, Mrs. W. H. Cleary, William V. Turcotte, Mrs. E. J. Quinn, Mrs. A. C. Weber, Dr. G. I. Badeaux.

Classifications and premiums: C. W. Mahlum, chairman; Robert Duerr, W. E. Paul, William V. Turcotte, Mrs. Mabel Carmichiel.

Membership: Mrs. Mabel Carmichiel, chairman; S. R. Adair, A. P. Cardle, C. W. Mahlum.

RAILWAY MEN CONVENE AT ATLANTIC CITY

Members of the American Railway Association hold their annual convention at Atlantic City from June 20 to 27.

Many exhibits will be shown of new developments in locomotives, rolling stock and right of way equipment, having as their object decreased running and maintenance costs and increased safety.

Among these exhibits will be various reciprocating parts made of strong aluminum alloys. The comparative lightness of these parts, engineers claim, reduces vibration and wear in the locomotive, as well as wear and tear on rails, and also removes one of the causes of derailments.

Railway coaches of aluminum construction, showing an appreciable weight-saving over steel coaches of the same size, are already in use. It is stated that such equipment has greatly reduced fuel costs and made travel safer and more comfortable.

Supporting data resulting from tests of this equipment, under operating conditions, will be submitted and discussed.

The stae supreme court recently upheld the decision of the Crow Wing county jury finding the three guilty. The case was appealed to the higher court by Basil T. Heath of the firm of Heath and Larson on the grounds that Olson was not a qualified officer.

Meritorius Work to be Basis of Competition for Eagle Scouts

CONTEST CLOSES JUNE 30

Ninety Boys and Leaders to be Chosen From 10th Region for Trips

Meritorious work will be the basis on which the selection will be made here for one boy scout to accompany one of the canoe trips through the Superior National Forest this summer for advanced boy scouts and scout masters of the 10th region.

The Minnesota American Legion in cooperation with the boy scouts, is to finance the way for one eagle scout from each of Minnesota's councils.

Any eagle scout desiring to compete for the opportunity to accompany the trip can do so by writing a 500 word story on how he became an eagle scout, what scouting means to him and what he has accomplished during the past year. All stories must be in the hands of Scout Executive B. Perry Newton by June 30.

The region from which 90 boys and leaders will be drawn, includes Minnesota, North and South Dakota, eastern Montana and part of Wisconsin. Five trips, each lasting ten days will be made with 12 scouts and six scoutmasters slated to participate in each, under the direction of C. S. Chase, Virginia, scout executive.

Starting from Ely, the initial trip will start July 2 with the return scheduled for July 11. The trip includes 10 days of easy stages and portages into the wilderness. Other trips scheduled are July 13 to 22, July 24 to August 2, August 4 to 13, and August 14 to 24.

Council headquarters cities in territories from which scouts will be selected are: Duluth, Austin, Albert Lea, Winona, Mankato, Faribault, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Brainerd, Virginia, Hibbing, Eveleth, Grand Forks, Fargo and Sioux Falls.

Scout Executive Chase is a veteran of the wilderness and boys entrusted to his care will receive the best of attention. For the last six summers he has conducted canoe trips for boys in his district.

Removing Tarnish

Rottenstone mixed with oil to a creamy consistency is the common frictional agent used for removing tarnish from copper, brass and bronze. After this cleaner has been applied the metal should be polished with a soft cloth. A final rubbing with dry rottenstone or whiting will give the metal an even brighter luster.

Visible Storm Clouds

The weather bureau says that the distance at which storm clouds are visible to the naked eye varies greatly with one's position and the kind of clouds. If a person is in an open flat country and the clouds are of the broad stratus or layer type, he may not see them more than 30 or 40 miles away.

CHASE SUGGESTS STATE FORESTER SHOULD RESIGN

WRITES OPEN LETTER TO GROVER M. CONZET, STATES HIS REASONS

3 CORNERED ARGUMENT RAGING OVER FOREST POLICIES

St. Paul, June 21.—(UP)—State Auditor Ray P. Chase today suggested in a letter that Grover M. Conzet, state forester, resign from the service because of "incompetency."

The letter to Conzet was the last contribution to a quarrel which has been carried through several months by Chase, Conzet and Dr. Raphael Zon, director of the lake state forest experiment station, concerning matters of forest policies.

Zon was said by Chase to have made a radio speech in April stating that Minnesota had no forest policy. Conzet, in a newspaper interview, had agreed with Zon's statement and blamed Chase.

Chase then accused Zon of failure to make definite moves toward forest policies and of an entire lack of initiative.

In his letter to Conzet today Chase said:

"I respectfully invite you to cite one constructive idea you have contributed to the deliberations of the conservation commission (of which Conzet is a member) since it came into existence. Your principal function has been to say "yes" and slam to the "Big Three."

"Your record is barren of achievement and a blank. Kindly let the governor have your resignation that we emay build from the foundation in harmony."

Unknown Golfers Wins Places

Olympia Fields, Chicago, June 21.—(UP) — Comparatively unknown golfers stepped in today to overshadow the efforts of established favcrites in the early rounds of the national open golf tournament.

Leonard Schmutte of Lina, O., temporarily took the lead with a brilliant 71, two strokes better than the scores of the favorite, Bobby Jones of Atlanta. Schmutte's score equalled par for the difficult course.

Bill Leach of Overbrook, Pa., and Leo Diegel, Washington pro, each had 72's, Jones followed at their heels with a 73. Fred Morrison of Monterey, Cal., also had 73.
